Scan walmart receipts for money back

By Andy Wise | May 8, 2017 at 8:19 PM CDT - Updated August 12 at 8:52 AM Ibotta in Action (Source: WMC Action News 5) MEMPHIS, TN (WMC) - Just throw your store receipt in the trash, right? Dig there and get it back. Then scan the barcode with one of RatherBeShopping.com's smartphone apps Kyle James, founder and savings guru, recommends scoring cash discounts. With very little time or effort, you can scan this receipt with your smartphone, and you get a lot of free money back, James said. You can take it out immediately with PayPal, or you can get a gift card. It's really a no-brainer. Starting with my favorite: * IBOTTA: Ibotta can be used with virtually any dealer receipt on any branded product. You can use it as your shopping list to check off items that you would still shop for to register their discounts. And that includes generic substances such as milk, eggs, even products, James said. One of Andy Wise's secret buyers, Shawn Anderson, brought Ibotta to work at Target. She created a shopping list of items listed as discounts at Target, including bread and milk with no brand restrictions. Her bill at the checkout was a little more than 25 dollars. We pulled their car aside, then used Ibotta to scan the barcode of each product, then they scanned their receipt barcode. Ibotta immediately rewarded her with more than 12 dollars in discounts and credits - although 10 dollars of it was a bonus for being a user of the product for the first time. I saved about half of what I spent! Anderson exclaimed. So I have more money to shop! * WALMART SAVINGS CATCHER APP: Walmart offers its own free receipt scanning app exclusively for its store receipts. As long as you scan the receipt within seven days of purchase, James said you can save and collect discounts that you can apply to future Walmart purchases. I'm up to 68 dollars, and I can use that money to go back to Walmart, go back-to-school shopping or do Christmas shopping, whatever it is, he said. After scanning your receipt, Walmart will check the prices of the items you purchased, compare them with prices from local competitors, and if they find a lower price, they will refund you the difference. * YAARLO. James said with the Yaarlo app, you can scan the receipt of each store and get a flat cash-back percentage on your total order. The more you use it, the higher that number will be, he explained. With Yaarlo, you can also get cash back on gift cards. Many people buy gift cards with Yaarlo and get money back. Go to the store, use this gift card, then scan this receipt back in the app get money back on the purchase with the gift card! So this is a kind of doubling of their savings. James has written a blog about these apps and other reasons why you should save your receipts. Link to him here. Getty Images Paper receipts can be annoying, but turns out that saving after your purchases could be an easy way to make some extra money. ABC15 in Arizona spoke to Kyle James, founder of the money-saving website Money Savings website who explained that there are a handful of apps that offer your cash back only to scan your receipts. The programs work with popular stores like Target, Walmart, Rite Aid, Food Lion and more. One of his suggestions is the use of the Ibotta app, which scans photos of your receipts on your smartphone for cash-back discounts. The money will then be deposited into your Ibotta account within 48 hours. The cool thing about Ibotta is getting money back for generic substances like milk, eggs and bananas, James told ABC15. It's not just name-brand stuff they might not buy. He also recommends Yaarlo, a shopping rewards program that gives users 5% to 10% cash back to shop online, scan receipts, and buy gift cards from participating retailers such as Walmart, Target, Nordstrom, Macy's and over 300 more. Along with these reward programs, James suggests looking at the store's specific programs. Walmart has a price matching app called Saving Catcher that gives you in-store credits if the item you purchased is available elsewhere at a lower price. You simply scan the QR code at the end of your receipt with the app and the app will find out if any of the local stores are selling what you bought at a lower price. Walmart automatically gives you the price difference, James explained. He also suggests looking at the bottom of your receipts for online surveys that you can do in exchange for a coupon or discount email. And since we all have to eat, grocery shopping is an activity where everyone can make a little more money. If you take a few seconds to scan receipts, you can earn cash or gift cards. And all these apps are free to use. Apps that pay to scan food receipts The best apps listed below and tips are the best way to earn money every time you shop. 1. Collect Rewards If you want to buy branded items, you can earn rewards points using the Fetch Rewards app. Some of the discount product categories include the following: BakingBeauty and Personal CareBeer, Wine and SpiritsBeveragesBreakfast and CerealCondiments and SaucesDairyDeliFrozenSnacksSnacks Usually include receive scan apps do not include local mom-and-pop stores. But the chances are good, buy at least one of these brands on a regular basis. So the good thing is that these offers from every store are good. Fetch Rewards only requires that your store provide a disaggregated receipt. This is a receipt that lists exactly the product you are buying. This is unlike other apps that you need to unlock coupons and discounts before your shopping trip. You will receive Reward Points for each item you receive with an active offer. For every dollar spent, you will receive ten points. These points can be redeemed for Visa gift cards, retail gift cards, or future grocery visits. Be sure to enter the recommendation code FETCH3K to get 3000 free points. This is a free sign-up bonus of 3.00 USD only for scanning your first receipt! Read the full report here. 2. Ibotta The largest and most popular food app is Ibotta. Maybe your friends or family have talked about it before. This app is one of the fastest ways to make money on food trips. Ibotta makes it easy to earn money back at over 300 grocery store brands. National franchises include Walmart, Target and Walgreens. Most regional franchises such as Kroger, HEB and Fry's partner with Ibotta. And you can earn money back from online stores like Jet and Amazon for non-food purchases. You can also earn additional purchase bonuses each month. It is possible to buy certain brands or redeem a certain amount of offers. First, all you need to do is link your loyalty card or phone number to Ibotta. Before you pay, activate the offers on the items you buy. You can either search the listings by categories in the app. Or you can scan product barcodes to see if there is an active offer. It is possible to save a variety of items from food, toothpaste and baby items. You can even save money on alcoholic beverages. Many offers are for a specific brand (e.g. Crest toothpaste). Others are for any item such as candy bars or AAA batteries, regardless of which brand you buy. Ibotta deposits most cash rewards into your account after 48 hours. After you have 20 dollars in cash rewards, you will receive payments with PayPal, Venmo or Gift Cards. After your first Ibotta purchase, you will receive a bonus of USD 10. Read our full Ibotta review to learn more about how to start making money by buying food. 3. ReceiptPal One of the most flexible ways to make money by scanning receipts is with ReceiptPal. Unlike the other apps listed here, you earn points for each uploaded receipt. And best of all, it can be from any store including some of the following unusual locations: convenience storescar housesgas stationstravel and recreation In addition to scanning food receipts, you earn points with most other non-food purchases. These include changing oil, buying a cup of coffee or booking a hotel room. After sending four receipts, you will receive 100 points. You can earn up to 300 points (12 receipts) per week. You have days from the end of the current month to submit their receipts. For example, if you buy in October, you have until November 3 to upload a copy of the receipt. ReceiptPal does not accept your proof of purchase if it is one of your regular monthly invoices (i.e. mortgage payment or electricity). In addition, payment processors (PayPal), peer marketplaces (i.e. eBay), sales marketplaces (e.g. Groupon) and gambling are not eligible. Otherwise, your normal monthly expenses are eligible. Eligible. You are ready to redeem your rewards points, you can receive a cash payment or gift cards. You can also try your luck at one of the weekly ReceiptPal sweepstakes. Or, you'll decide to redeem your points for an Amazon gift card valued at 1 usd. Download to Android or download to iOS. 4. Shopkick To get started, download the Shopkick app (available for iOS and Android) to your smartphone and turn on your phone GPS in the app. You can earn points only for going into a business. Get a new user bonus worth 5 dollars by using the code WALLETS. Once you are in the shop, you will see which product barcodes you can scan and enter price amounts. If Shopkick indicates that no purchase is required to earn points, they mean it. Shopkick pays you to scan barcodes of items you don't buy. Of course, you can earn more points by purchasing items. You can also earn points by scanning items in non-grocery stores. And by browsing online stores and watching videos online. You can redeem your points for gift cards at your favorite restaurants and retail brands. So if you like shopping or want an excuse to train, Shopkick can make it easy to earn gift cards. You'll also have fun shopping at the same time. 5. CoinOut Do you buy groceries at Walmart or Sam's Club? This app pays you a flat 1.8% back on all grocery purchases. Fans of the TV series Shark Tank may remember CoinOut well. You do not need to redeem offers. CoinOut only requires you to upload store receipts. When you buy groceries at Walmart or Sam's Club, CoinOut gives you reward points. And you can use other apps to redeem individual item listings to increase your revenue. At the moment it doesn't work in other stores that sell food. But you can also get money back from non-food retail partners. These include eBay, Office Depot, Hotels.com, and others. There is no minimum to receive payment by direct deposit or Amazon gift cards. With a reward balance of 10 dollars, you can request PayPal payments. 6. SavingStar Another long-standing digital coupon app is SavingStar. SavingStar allows you to receive cash rewards at most locations in the grocery store. You link your store loyalty card to SavingStar and select the weekly offers to earn money back. SavingStar allows you to withdraw as soon as your balance reaches 20 dollars. Your payment options include direct deposit, PayPal or charitable donations. While many are offers for packaged foods, SavingStar also offers a healthy offer of the week. This offer will help you to raise money for save fresh fruit and vegetables. They also offer tiered One or Many rewards. With these offers, you can earn money back if you buy only one item or more of the same product. A unique savings tool are their Always On Programs. With this tool, SavingStar activates the same offers every time. This means that you will never forget to activate offers before you pay. 7. Coupons.com Coupons.com is one of the leading online digital coupon apps. You can download your app and activate in-app offers. In most stores, you can scan your Store loyalty card to save money With stores that don't have a store loyalty card, grab a picture of your receipt. Then Coupons.com immediately sends to your PayPal account, regardless of your account balance. This app can replace the purchase of the Sunday newspaper to cut coupons. There are more than 500 dollars in potential savings when you buy name tags. Downloading digital coupons is probably the easiest way to make money with Coupons.com. But you can also print coupons if you prefer this classic method of saving from money. 8. TopCashback TopCashback is an online app that can help you earn cash back rewards for your online shopping. Most likely you make money from non-food retailers. But look for offers from all the national shops in your city. You can offer rewards when you order online and pick them up at the store. You can also earn rewards by buying from online grocers such as Vitacost or Boxed. Or for ordering food delivery services. With this app, it's easy to get money back. Enter the store name in the app to activate your shopping session. Then the app directs you to the retailer's website. Once you make a purchase in this shopping session, TopCashback tracks your purchase. Usually within 24 hours, your cash back balance will be deposited into your TopCashback account. These cash rewards are payable by direct deposit, PayPal and gift cards including Amazon. When you redeem your gift card rewards, you can usually receive a redemption bonus. With the potential to earn reparation from more than 3,500 retailers, you can use TopCashback for more than just grocery shopping. You can also find discount codes and digital coupons to save money. 9. Rakuten A popular online cashback portal is Rakuten. You can use them to save money in online grocery stores. Some options are Vitacost, Jet, GNC and Blue Apron. You never need to scan your receipt as Rakuten tracks your online purchases. Within two days, most purchase awards will receive credits to your Rakuten account. Once your reward balance reaches 5 dollars, you can pay or check via PayPal. Rakuten pays quarterly. You can earn between 1% and 40% at over 2,000 retailers. But you will most likely not earn cashback in your local grocery store. To make money, start a shopping session from your computer or the Rakuten app. To never miss a cashback session, download the Rakuten Browser extension. In addition, first-time users will receive a cash bonus of USD 10 after the first purchase of USD 25. Read the full Rakuten report here. 10. Checkout 51 Checkout 51 is for U.S. and Canadian grocery shoppers Offers are updated every Thursday and are available on a First Come First Serve basis. So if you wait too long to claim it, the offer may no longer be available. You must also scan all receipts in your time zone by 11:59 p.m. on Wednesday. Once the weekly offers have been reset, you will no longer be able to claim last week's offers. While some offers are store-specific, you can redeem almost all of them in any store in person or online. After activating the offer(s), buy the item and download a copy Receipt at Checkout 51. Users like Checkout 51 because you can browse offers from your computer in addition to the mobile app. As soon as your balance reaches USD 20, Checkout 51 will send you a cheque. 11. Receipt Hog Receipt Hog tries to make food and non-food shopping fun with their interactive app. You can consider this app because you are paid to purchase in any retail store. Even if you don't buy a single food item, you're earning rewards. But most offers are for grocery stores. After shopping, grab a picture of your receipt and wait for Receipt Hog to credit you with reward coins. What Receipt Hog is fun with are the different ways to earn bonus points. You get free spins every time you upload a receipt, or refer a friend to join Hog. And you can also earn extra coins by making paid surveys. Or by attempting challenges such as uploading a certain number of receipts in a single month. You can redeem your reward points for Amazon gift cards, PayPal cash, magazines, and sweepstakes entries. Cash payments are available if you earn 1,000 coins, which is the equivalent of 5 dollars. 12. National Consumer Panel National Consumer Panel works a little differently than some of the other apps mentioned here. For most apps, you enable offers before you shop. But with National Consumer Panel, you activate offers after you have paid. This app works for all food and non-food purchases. All you need to do is scan the barcode of any product you buy along with the purchase price. It takes about an hour a week to share your shopping history and get your points. With each purchase, you earn points that you can redeem for cash, gift cards and prizes. They also have cash drawings every week, month and quarter. As a loyalty bonus, you earn more points by scanning your purchases every week. Your revenue increases the longer you remain an active member. And you can also earn bonus points for completing paid online surveys. But if you're one of the few holdouts that doesn't have a smartphone, don't despair. National Consumer Panel will send you a free barcode scanner to scan your barcodes. Owners of Apple and Android devices only need to download the app to start scanning. 13. Cellfire Cellfire allows you to download digital coupons to your Store loyalty card through their app. This app can be a great all-in-one option if you have multiple loyalty cards in your wallet. All you have to do is let the cashier scan your loyalty card as usual. The are immediate. The beauty of Cellfire is that every coupon is digital. But you can also print coupons to save even more when you pay. 14. Basket The Basket app can help you save money in two different ways. First, you can activate in-app offers in your favorite grocery store. These offers pay back cash for selected foods, baby and personal health items. Getting cash back is the primary feature for all receive scan apps. And basket is no exception. Secondly, the other way to earn monetary rewards is to: Shopping list in the app. After you create a list, Basket shows what other app users have paid for similar items. Then Basket recommends the cheapest shop for your list. During the comparison, Basket also includes all in-app offerings. This app makes knowing how much you're going to spend more predictable. 15. Mobee For a unique twist when shopping for groceries, you can download Mobee. It's a shopping app that pays you to shop and check your shopping experience. Also, you may have the opportunity to mystery shop in a local grocery store. After answering five to ten questions, your shopping trip review is complete. You will then receive your points within 24 hours of completing the mission. Redeem the points for PayPal cash, gift cards and merchandise prizes. 17. SnipSnap You do not scan your food receipt with SnipSnap, but you can scan the barcodes of paper coupons to store them on your phone. With SnipSnap, you can browse the latest offerings for many grocers and non-grocers. If your grocery store partners with SnipSnap, this app will help you never forget your coupons at home again. 18. Amazon Coupons If you make your grocery purchases on Amazon, you can also consider browsing their coupon page before shopping. Vouchers are available to Amazon Prime members who use Prime Pantry and non-Prime members. For those who buy Prime Pantry, you know that you will have to pay USD 5.99 to ship a box that can weigh up to 45 pounds. These coupons can offset the shipping costs. Even with shipping costs, Amazon may still be cheaper than your local store. All voucher savings are valid immediately at the checkout. 19. Hopster Hopster is a mobile app that offers printable coupons with a retraceable barcode. Be sure to redeem your coupons by uploading a snapshot of your receipt. So Hopster checks that you are using the coupons you download. For each voucher you redeem, you earn bonus points. You can even earn bonus points to like them on social media. And by doing other tasks like watching videos. Once they check your receipt, Hopster will send you an instant cash reward on PayPal. And you can enjoy bigger savings with future coupon redemptions. They will also like Hopster because their coupons are redeemable in any store. 20. CheckPoints CheckPoints is a multifaceted app. You can earn points by scanning barcodes of your favorite products in your local grocery store. And you can also earn points for your other online activities. These actions include watching videos, answering surveys, and browsing the Internet. You can also play bonus games to win even more points. If you are currently using Swagbucks, this website will have a familiar platform. However, CheckPoints allow you to scan product barcodes for points. This is a task that Swagbucks does not currently offer. Redeem your points for gift cards and merchandise. 21. Makeena Another healthy eating app to try is Makeena. You make money from buying healthy and environmentally friendly products. It's a good app if you want to save money fresh products. And by buying these healthy brands in the special supermarket aisle. Other apps don't offer much in terms of fresh products. So this app can be worth a try, just for this unique advantage. You can create a shopping list and activate quotes before you shop. Scan the product barcodes and your receipt at home. Once your balance reaches USD 20, you can request PayPal or Venmo payments. 22. Snap by Groupon you might think that Groupon is only for good deals for restaurants and travel experiences. Snap by Groupon offers weekly offers for food and non-food purchases. If you want to buy groceries in online stores like Vitacost or Target, search for discount codes in Snap. You can enter these codes during checkout to see immediate savings. Unfortunately, you will not find any savings offers for your local grocery stores. Compared to other apps in this list, your savings potential is not as high. But if you're using Snap for non-food savings, take a look. This app is better to help you save money on goods and experiences. The digital coupons you activate and redeem reduce your total purchase price. This means that there is no hassle with trying to earn a minimum reward balance or waiting to complete a PayPal transfer. 23. Target App's App is another app that lets you activate coupons for many different food categories. In addition, you can save on non-food goods. To track your savings, let the cashier scan your barcode. As a result, you get your cash savings immediately when you pay. It's like a store loyalty card in the supermarket. Target released most of its new offerings on Sunday morning. But maybe you can see new offers during the week. So look right in front of the shop to see the latest offers. 24. Your favorite food app You can also download the official app for your favorite grocery store. The deals found here may not be as lucrative. But you have access to store-only coupons. These coupons can be in addition to any savings you receive from other coupons. Or from using a third-party receive scan app like Ibotta. Grocery store apps can also offer exclusive perks that third-party apps can't. These perks may include a free delivery or a pick-up discount when you order online. Some of the apps you might consider: AlbertsonsHarris TeeterH-E-BKrogerPublixSafewayWalmart Food, although this is just a partial list, get the idea. The next time you receive a weekly flyer or visit the store, look for an ad their mobile app. Also, it may tell you that first-time users can get a one-time bonus. Tips to maximize your Cash Back Receipt scan apps are an easy way to make money from any grocery purchase. However, the following tips can maximize your efforts. In some cases, you may save just a few cents more. Other times, you can save a few extra dollars after these tips. Get a grocery loyalty Most supermarkets offer store loyalty cards. You scan these cards at so you can enjoy instant discounts. For example, you'll get five items for 5 dollars with your card. But you'll pay €1.25 each without your Store Loyalty Card. These cards are free and offer exclusive discounts. Sometimes you can redeem these offers along with paper or digital coupons. Use in-store coupons To you need to research the terms of each app, but you can usually double coupon. In this case, you can use a store's coupon plus the app discount. Of course, not every in-app offering will have a digital coupon. But it's still worth looking for both. Double coupon gives you an instant cash back discount with the in-store coupon. And earn an extra reward with the digital app. If you have an award credit card, you can earn reward points for every dollar you spend. And these points are separate from any app offering. But this advice only applies if you pay your credit card balance in full every month. Remember, the shopping app doesn't care how you pay for your purchase. All you look at is if you buy the right product and upload your receipt on time. Scanning your Receipt ASAP instead of storing your food receipt as soon as you unload your food bags, scan it immediately. Some apps may only give you three days to scan your receipt. Waiting for the scan means that you are more likely to forget to submit the receipt. So if you wait too long, you miss making money for this trip. It only takes a moment to share your grocery purchase and earn money rewards by using the free apps mentioned here. You may have already stretched your food budget to buy food at the lowest price. If so, these apps can put more money back into your wallet every time you visit them. As you can see, it is possible to make money at any grocery store purchase. Some apps you pay to buy certain brands. Others give you rewards points, regardless of which brand you buy. So the next time you shop, take a few seconds to scan food receipts. Because no matter how you shop, these apps put money back in your pocket. Happy Shopping! Which apps give you the most money back? Do you prefer instant savings, cash or gift card rewards? Rewards?
